Gentlemen:

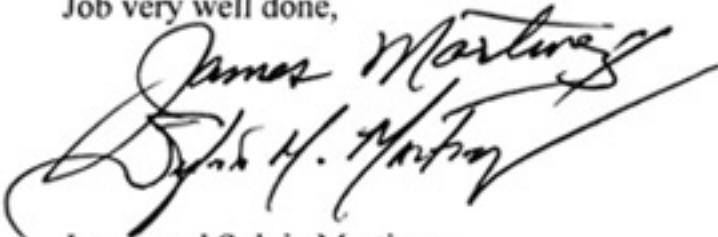

When we learned that our home was affected by sink hole activity, We were struck with fear and panic. Our home is a precious asset and has major importance in our life. We researched to find the best organization we would trust with the remediation of our home, and spent weeks researching and checking references of companies that offer the services needed to perform the work. After this diligent process we came to the decision to select your company. We felt we could trust that your company would do the best job possible, to help protect our home and we were correct.

On March 10th, the grouting of the home was completed by your organization. Your personnel lived up to all our expectations and beyond. They arrived early every day, and worked continuously and arduously until late in the day. They wore neat work uniform shirts, and arrived daily all together in a company vehicle. The workers and their supervisors were courteous, efficient, and very hard workers. It amazed me and my wife how neat they left the work site every day. All your equipment worked very well, there were no breakdowns. At the conclusion of the job, the home site looked exactly as they found it at the inception of the drilling and grouting process.

We can highly recommend to anyone in need of your company's services to seriously consider your company. We know that when we chose your company to grout our home, we selected the best organization and people for the job. Our first contact was your marketing representative Dave Toler, whose presentation very honestly and accurately reflected what could be expected from your company. Then we met your supervisors Joe Summit, James Alexander, Reed Summit, right on down the line to include all your drillers and grouting personnel, they were exceptionally well trained and committed to provide the best job performance possible. Brianna, your office manager was exceptional in coordinating and communicating with my wife and me.

We invite any person wishing a reference on your company's performance to contact us; we will offer the highest recommendation possible.

With our sincere appreciation for a
Job very well done,
